For Katy Barrell the contours of the cliffs, the field patterns, the location of boundary gates and the routes for bringing the cows in for milking were second nature.

Born in 1966 in Freedom Fields, she was reared within an energetic and creative family on a windswept dairy farm high on the North Cornwall Coast.

Searching for the balance of abstraction and metaphor to describe experience of place she gained a BA Hons at Bradford and Ilkley School of Art and Design.

Whilst continuing to paint and exhibit, she taught in schools in Cleveland, Middlesex, Devon and Powys.

Her paintings are held in collections within the United Kingdom, Luxemburg, California and Canada.

The lie of the land and the stories of place are the visual and lyrical inspiration for her paintings.
